Answer the following questions:

Q-1: Why did Akbar ask the man to stand in a cold pond?

Ans: Akbar wanted to know whether someone would do anything for money. So, when the poor man came forward to accept the challenge, Akbar asked him to spend the cold night in the pond.

Q-2: How did the man feel warm through the night?

Ans: The poor man spent the night shivering in the cold pond, by imagining the warmth of a light that was burning far away.

Q-3: Why did the emperor refuse to reward the man?

Ans: The emperor refused to reward the poor man because he thought the man had cheated in the challenge by imagining the warmth of the light that was far away.

Q-4: Why was the khichdi not getting cooked?

Ans: The khichdi was not getting cooked because it was hanging from a height and the fire was on the ground.

Q-5: How did Birbal show the emperor that he was wrong?

Ans: Birbal used the example of the khichdi not getting cooked with the heat of the fire that was burning underneath. Thus, he proved to the king that the man could not have got any warmth from the light that was so far away.
